Show to Feature Seniors' Projects Through May 9

BOILING SPRINGS, N.C.—From portrait photography and videos to advertisements and journalistic writing, the outstanding work of Gardner-Webb University communications students will be on display on campus through May 9.

The GWU Department of Communication and New Media's annual Senior Show in the Communication Studies Hall is open to the public.

"The senior show gives students the opportunity to showcase their best work and to also network and interact with visitors," offered Dr. Amanda Bridges, assistant professor of graphic design. "The students will also have resumes, business cards and additional pieces on display for visitors to take with them."

Featured students will include Jenna Ballinger, Jonelle Bobak, Melody Bubar, Hannah Covington, Kanisha Fowler, Yasmin Ghasemy-Doost, Colin Helms, Dave Hodges, Brittney Johnson, Kelli Kline, Allison Parrish, Chelsea Price, Jessi Saltijeral, Spencer Scott and Brooke Smith. Exhibits will include a variety of samples of graphic design, journalism, photography, public relations, and video and film.

The opening reception will include light refreshments. For more information, contact Bridges at 704-406-2137.

Auxiliary aids will be made available to persons with disabilities upon request 48 hours prior to the event. Please call 704-406-4253 or email servicerequests@gardner-webb.edu with your request.

Located in Boiling Springs, N.C., Gardner-Webb University offers a comprehensive academic experience that introduces students to the diverse world of ideas and to the people who think them, preparing them for career success and for engaged, responsible citizenship in their professional, civic, and spiritual communities.
